

The ode to $V(\lambda)$

Only you, can make the measurement seem right.
In the world of photons and light's might.
 $V(\lambda)$, you're the foundation of color and our sight,
Guiding us through the dark, with your sure light.

Your birth, a century ago, marked a new dawn,
A time of discovery, and learning's crown.
You've led us to new heights, in science and art,
And shown us the path, to a future uncharted.

May your influence continue, for centuries yet to come,
Inspiring generations, to seek, to learn, to dream.
 $V(\lambda)$, only you, can make the measurement seem right,
In your glory, we stand, humbled, in respect and delight.
